(1) Prayer Times

Prayer times in this document are based on the calculations of the moonsighting.com website, which “uses a complex formula as a function of Latitudes and Seasons derived from actual observation of Subh-Sadiq and disappearance of Shafaq as observed by teams of Muslims/Ulamaa in different parts of the world at different latitudes. Sufficient observations were made to cover the entire year capturing the difference in all seasons and at different latitudes”.

(2) Congregation (Jama3a) Times

Congregational (Jama3a) prayer times for the Lancaster University Islamic Prayer Room are based on experience and informal feedback we get from students and staff. The procedures below are not prescriptive but merely guidelines aimed at maximising the size of prayer congregations and facilitating interaction among Muslims on campus. It is our understanding that delaying prayer is permissible for the purpose of achieving a larger congregation as long as it remains within the prescribed time (waqt). It is our hope that everyone does their best to attend congregation times when possible. Obviously it is impossible to accommodate everyone’s schedule. In any case, brothers and sisters should feel free to pray and use the room anytime they wish.

(i) Fajr congregation usually takes place about 45 minutes prior to sunrise (shuruq). When Fajr is earlier than 3:00, congregation will be shortly after actual time to avoid delaying those who stay up for Fajr. The same applies during Ramadhan so that congregations can take place shortly after suhur (evening meal before Fajr).

(ii) Dhuhr congregation takes place between 13:00 and 14:00 since that is the time many staff members have their lunch break.

(iii) 3asr congregation is timed according to Hanafi school since a large part of the local community follows that school. It is permissible to delay prayer but not permissible to pray before time (under normal circumstances). Therefore it is possible for those who follow the Shafe3i school to follow Hanafi timing but not vice versa because Shafe3i is earlier.

Please note: around mid November to mid January when 3asr is earliest (e.g. 13:35), those who follow Shafe3i may prefer to pray 3asr according to Shafe3i because it allows them to pray 3asr in congregation shortly after Dhuhr congregation without making two trips to the prayer room or missing 3asr altogether because they have to run to class. Therefore, even though the agreed timing for 3asr congregation is usually Hanafi, those who follow Shafe3i should also have the freedom to follow their own timing to avoid being inconvenienced during that time of year.

(iv) Maghrib congregation is usually timed within 10 minutes of actual prayer time.

(v) 3isha congregation varies depending on the time of year. When 3isha starts early (e.g. 17:30), congregation time is delayed to give brothers and sisters more time (about 2 hours) between Maghrib and 3isha. When British summer time begins in March, congregation times are shortly after actual time to avoid delaying brothers and sisters on campus. Around mid May to the end of July, when 3isha becomes very late (later than 22:30), some brothers and sisters may opt to combine Maghrib and 3isha– that is, pray 3isha in congregation straight after Maghrib congregation. This is based on a fatwa issued by the European Council for Fatwa and Research (for details see <http://www.leedsgrandmosque.com/services/fatwa-eisha.asp>). The ISOC keeps this option open by announcing it in the email updates. Those who prefer to pray 3isha on time should feel free to do so.

Jum3a (Friday) Prayer

In the timetable, Friday prayer time is listed (in bold) instead of Dhuhr congregation on Fridays. Like Dhuhr, we try to keep Jum3a (Friday) Prayer between 13:00 and 14:00. Jum3a obviously takes longer to complete than Dhuhr, so we have to make it earlier on some days of the year to avoid Jum3a entering into (Shafe3i) 3asr time which would invalidate Jum3a.

Congregation (Jama3a) Time Updates

Congregation times change once a week starting every Monday. This is reflected in both this prayer timetable and the weekly updates sent out Sunday nights to the ISOC email list (luisoc@googlegroups.com). Changing (updating) congregation times more than once a week makes it difficult for students and staff with busy schedules to keep up. During Ramadhan, congregation times for Fajr and Maghrib are updated on a daily basis.

The congregation time clocks in the prayer room should be updated every Monday morning. Please do not change the times on these clocks unless you are sure they have not been updated that week.
